

Remembering N8M: 1958

*145 Teams played 8-Man football in 1958 * (Up from 120 in 1957)

Eight-Man football continued its growth pattern in 1958, as the 6-Man ranks shrunk even further. And remember, there was still a Class D 11-Man class in existence at this time.

Gregg McBride from the World-Herald chose to split 8-Man football into TWO classes when the number of schools playing the game ballooned to over a hundred schools. He actually did two sets of ratings all season, but then included a Final Top Ten combining Classes A & B. He also did the same for All-State teams but published a combined version, choosing the best of both classes.
